You may be eligible to have your student loans cancelled.

WHAT CALIFORNIA STUDENTS NEED TO KNOW ABOUT CORINTHIAN'S CLOSURE

Important information for students who recently attended Heald College, Everest College or WyoTech:

- You are likely eligible to have your federal student loans cancelled.
- You may be eligible for reimbursement for some private loans through California's Student Tuition Recovery Fund.
- You can access free legal advice to help you through the loan discharge process.
- Note that transferring any credits to another institution may make you lose your right to a refund.
- Don't rush your decisions about next steps.

The California attorney general has set up a website with an interactive tool to help you get the applications you need for loan cancellation and to connect you with free legal advice. Visit <https://oag.ca.gov/corinthian>.

NEXT STEPS

Do not rush into any decisions about next steps. You do not lose any benefits by taking the time you need to make the right decision, but you may lose benefits by rushing to make a decision.

Here are some things to consider about transferring to another school:

- Be wary of any special "limited time" deals or temporary scholarships that are designed to force a quick decision.
- Some of the other colleges recruiting you or being suggested to you as transfer options are under federal and/or state investigation for deception.

Don't forget to check out the options available at your local community college. Visit www.cccco.edu for more info.

If you're unsure of your federal loan debt you can look it up online at <https://www.nslds.ed.gov/> (PIN needed) to find out what you owe and find contact information for your loan servicer.

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES

- Corinthian (Heald, Everest, WyoTech) students whose schools closed anywhere—not just in California—may be eligible to have their federal student loans cancelled. Find out more at <http://bit.ly/1dNDmWN>.
